I would like to tell you about my favourite place in Moscow - ~~The~~ Red Square.

~~The~~ Red Square is located in the historic centre of Moscow, ~~along~~ along the eastern walls of the Kremlin.

I like this place because it is a symbol of Russia. A lot of historical events took place here, which are interesting to study in history lessons. There are a large number of attractions on this square: St. Basil's Cathedral, Kazan Cathedral, mausoleum, fountains and etc. We also often travel to Moscow with our class to spend time there. Our program always includes a visit <sup>to</sup> ~~at~~ the Red Square, where we can once again admire the beauty of the architecture and take memorable photos.

If a tourist finds themselves in Moscow, they should visit ~~the~~ Red Square. This is the place to start exploring Russia. There are many mysteries and secrets hidden in this place. It is filled with history. I highly recommend ~~that~~ tourists <sup>to</sup> visit the Red Square to learn about the history and architecture of Russia. The Red Square is often used ~~as~~ <sup>in</sup> movies, books and TV shows. It is mentioned in the works of Alexander Russian writers <sup>such as</sup> Pushkin, Tolstoy, Bulgakov and other classical ~~the~~ authors.

Dear Kate,

I hope this letter <sup>finds</sup> you well. I wanted to share with you my memories of my favorite toy from childhood. When I was a child, my favorite toy <sup>was</sup> a teddy bear named Bill. I got this toy on my birthday from my parents. Now, as an adult, I still have Bill. He sits on my bookshelf, a reminder of my childhood and the simple joys of life. Even though I don't play with him anymore, he still brings me comfort and happiness whenever I look at him. In conclusion, Bill was more than just a toy to me. He was a companion, a friend, and a source of comfort.

Red Square is the most famous and important square in Moscow. Some people believe it is the real heart of Russia. It is not just a beautiful place. It is a living history book where you can see the story of the country.

Red Square is located in central Moscow. The first thing I like about Red Square is the amazing St. Basil's Cathedral. It's unlike any other building in the world with its bright, colourful and onion-shaped domes. It looks like something from fairy tale. Next to the cathedral, we can see the long, red walls of the Kremlin. It is the working place of the Russian president. On the other side of the square is the GUM store. It looks more fascinating in the evening.

The name "Red Square" has nothing in common with the red colour. In old Russian, the word "red" also meant "beautiful". Therefore, the ~~real~~ its name actually means "Beautiful Square". For centuries, it has been the main place for important national events, from military parades to big concerts. In winter, the square changes into a magical place with a large ice rink and Christmas markets.

I would recommend this place to foreign tourists because visiting Red Square lets them experience Russian culture directly. It is a place where the past and the present of Russia meet. It is a symbol of the country's soul and a perfect place to visit for anyone who wants to understand Russia.

Vorobyovy Mountains

Vorobyovy Mountains is a perfect spot for tourists in Moscow. There you can enjoy the fresh air right in the center of Moscow and explore see it from a bird's-eye view.

The Mountains and the park on them are located close to the city center - near the third transport ring, the Moscow Lomonosov Moscow State University. You can get there using the red line of the metro, Vorobyovy Gory station. It is six stations from Red Square to the south.

I adore this place because I think that it is a mystery to see an old forest, swamps and lakes in the center of such a big city. It is not similar to any other park in Moscow.

Also, the height difference between the lowest and the highest points of the park is astonishing.

I recommend this place to foreign tourists because there you can both see all the main sights of Moscow from a big height (Moscow-city, Zenith stadium, The Shukhov Tower, The Christ the Savior cathedral) and other and to touch, to experience beautiful Russian nature. Also, I think no other capital in the world has a park with such an extraordinary landscape.

Moscow is a very beautiful city. When you plan to visit it, don't forget to visit the Vorobyovy Mountains park.
